The Five Elements Farm to Table

Join us for our season's first Farm to Table dinner at Celebration Garden. The evening's dining experience features sumptuous courses aligned with the five elements of Earth, Fire, Wood, Water, and Metal, paired with libations. Our gardens will provide many of the local ingredients sourced for our chefs' original culinary creations. Our featured elemental chefs include Justin Resech of Festival Chef, Emily Green of Cibo Meals, and Jared Kendall of Thistle and Mint.

Featured Chefs & Culinary Connections

Featured chefs committed to our Frontline Farming vision of organic, local produce available to all our communities, and sustainable farming that benefits our communities and our farmers, hail from these restaurant and hospitality venues. Find out more about their missions for beautiful & delicious foods in Colorado.

Dinner $125

Proceeds from the Farm to Table dinner and Silent Auction help support our Healing Foods Program and Farmer Educational Series.

Healing Foods Program

More than a quarter of the produce grown on all our farms is donated to social service organizations through our Healing Foods Program. Some of the organizations we work with include Project Angel Heart, SafeHouse Denver, and Family Tree. In partnership with Denver Health, we identify twenty individuals dealing with extreme or terminal illnesses and deliver a weekly package of fresh produce to their doors.

Farmer Education Program

Monthly class series are offered at our various sites with a sliding scale payment option. No one is turned away for payment concerns. From adult learning to children's programming, classes follow relevant gardening topics with the seasons. Ranging from beekeeping to backyard chickens, to cover crops for your neighborhood garden, our educational series support local farming interests and sustainability.
